

A member of the Legacy Pacific Group of Companies

Superior Freeze Dry Corporation seeks a FOOD PROCESSING TECHNICIAN to work in our new Chilliwack, BC R&D facility.

We are looking for a self motivated, self directed team player with a positive perspective and thirst for knowledge and discovery. The successful candidate will be very “hands on” and will enjoy a dynamic environment creating and perfecting new products with world leading technology.

The ideal candidate has experience in the production of food, beverage or drug products, and should have extra skills in quality control, including:

- A minimum of 6 months food manufacturing experience
- Experience working with quality control and food safety systems for food manufacturing (such as GMP and HACCP)
- Excellent analytical and organizational skills, very detail oriented.
- Strong English communication skills
- Good Computer Skills including MS Word and Excel would be useful, but not required
- A degree/diploma in food science, food technology or microbiology would be an asset, but not required
- Chinese communication skills are considered a strong asset, but not a job requirement

Duties will include:

- Production of a wide variety of food products
- Cleaning and sanitation of equipment
- Completing production documents for quality control
- Assisting with laboratory duties including product testing
